

FREE · THE PROMPT PACK

YOU'VE SAVED ENOUGH. START WRITING IT.

Eleven prompts. Ten minutes a week. One small move.

Once a week

Ten minutes, any notebook, your notes app. Wherever you'll actually do it.

Pick two or three

You don't need all eleven every time. Start with the one that makes you flinch.

Leave with a move

Something you can do before Sunday. Write it down before you close the page.

01

WANT

Write the number. The salary, the savings, the rent you'd happily pay. Now write why you've never said it out loud.

02

WANT

Open your Pinterest. Find the pin you keep coming back to. What would have to change this year for you to actually live in it?

03

WANT

Describe a Tuesday in the life you want, hour by hour. Circle the first thing on that list you could start doing now. Why haven't you?

04

WANT

Whose life do you check on the most? Name the one thing you envy. Envy is information. What is it telling you?

05

PICTURE IT

What are you still waiting for permission to want? Whose yes did you think you needed?

06 PICTURE IT

What does staying exactly where you are protect you from?

07 PICTURE IT

What would you stop doing tomorrow if no one you know would ever find out?

08 MOVE

What's the twenty-minute version of your dream? Do it before Sunday. If you won't, write the real reason.

09 MOVE

What's the bravest message you could send this week? Write it word for word. Then send it.

10 MOVE

If you had to show someone proof of progress in seven days, what would you make sure you'd done?

11 PROOF

Screenshot something you did this week that you'd have talked yourself out of a year ago. What would it have cost you not to?

STUCK? ASK AI. THEN ANSWER IT YOURSELF.

"Here's what I wrote. Ask me five questions that make it more specific. Don't rewrite anything."
When the dream still feels blurry.

"I keep putting off [the move]. Ask me why, three times, and don't let me off easy."
When you know exactly what to do and still aren't doing it.

"Here's my week. Find me twenty minutes for this."
When "I don't have time" is the whole story.

Leave names, addresses and anything medical or financial out of AI chats.
